The Horrible Murders in Greene, N. Y .-Examination of Johnson, charged with Rape, the Murder of one, and attempted Murder of two other Females.

It will be recollected that we gave, a day or two since, a few particulars of the horrible atrocities said to have been committed in Greene, in this State. The examination of John Johnson, aged about seventy years, and worth about $70,000, who is charged with rape, murder, and other crimes, is now going on in Binghampton.

FIRE AT CULPETER, VA.—A correspondent of the Richmond Whag, writes to that paper, dated Nov. 26: "The centre of Culpepper Court House is now wrapped in flames. The fire caught about 4 o'clock, at the suirfax Hotel, kept by Samuel Decamp, and is now spreading with fearful rapidity. The flames have already consumed the hotel, Buyle's store, H. Shackelford's house and office, and the Masonic Hall—and Major Hill's house has just caught. It is to be feared that the whole of Centre Culpeper C. H. will be consumed. Court House, Clerk's Office, and several other buildings, in great danger."

ARRIVAL OF WINTER, &c .- Our intelligence from the north, by this morning's mails, is that the cold weather has finally set in, and that navigation on the canals is, by this time, closed. All those interested in the movements of produce to market ought to be thankful for the continuance of mild weather to so late a period in the season. It enabled them to get into market a much larger supply of breadauffs, &c., than ever before in any one season. Annexed are the particulars of the weather at various points :--

[From the Albany papers of Nov. 28.]

[From the Albany papers of Nov. 28.]

The weather has very much changed within the last twenty-four hours, and at this present writing, the atmosphere feels as though we were shortly to have winter in earnest. The thermometer stood to-day, at 2 P. M., at twenty six degrees, being four degrees below the freezing point. A snow storm is predicted to come off within the next forty-eight hours. The wind is blowing from the north-west, with occasional flurries of snow; and the forwarders, shippers, &c., on the docks, are bestirring themselves with the greatest activity. We notice that a heavy rain fell in New York yesterday morning, with a temperature like that of spring.

Over 100 canal boats are laid up in the basin, and double that number have yet to discharge their freights. The wind worked round to the north-west yesterday. The weather is clear and cold to-day. The canal cannot remain open much longer. Fortunately, however, for our forwarders, they are nearly prepared for the change. The boats of the Merchant's Line, and we believe those of some of the other lines, are all in the basin. On no former occasion has the business of the canal been "done up cleaner."

and Saco, the Eastern Railroad had suffered some, the embankments having received serious injury—so much so as to prevent the passage of the cars, until the evit can be remedied.

[From the Buffalo Advertiser, Nov. 27.]

About half the fleet, some fifty vessels, left westward with a fair wind, yesterday, but were caught in the night by the prevailing snow storm from the east. Of the whole fleet, only one has returned, the schr. Lexington, and ase found it impossible to proceed, in consequence of the thick weather. Indeed, the present appearance of the weather would indicate an almost immediate closing of lake navigation. The steamer Missouri returned from Detroit, last evening, in company with the Jefferson, which has been lying in ordinary at Eric. The J. is to be stripped—her engine to be placed in a new bost to be built here for Mr. Reed, this winter, and the hull converted into a coal barge. Such transformation can be effected easily, either by making her a propeller, or by the use of canvas alone. The Nile and Constitution are both up for Detroit again, as well as the Lexington The former remains there, and the Missouri is up for her winter berth at Eric. The schr. McWhorter, driven in by the late gale, is still here, but an effort is making to get her back to a lower lake port, for the purpose of being rebuilt—her cargo of salt can be disposed of here, and the other freight sent forward by steam. The Smead is yet unheard of. The Avenger brought in, flast night, the mainboom and canvas of some lost vessel.—The brig Missouri is at Ashtabula discharging a cargo of corn. The Sentinel says, that on entering, the current of the creek being strong, she woll have gone sshore but for the steamer Franklin, by which she was hauled in. The sloop Emma, with a load of corn, came in on Saturday night. The schooner North Carolina, in attempting to come in failed, and went ashore, head on. The brig Alert attempted to come in but failed, owing to the strong southwest wind and the current. Failing to get in, she cast anchor numerous veins of copper and silver.

In addition to the above, there are other companies preparing to commence operations early in the spring, of which the New York and Michigan, the National, the North Western, the Baltimore, the Old Settlers, and the Ontanagon, are prominent. All the companies named are of the most substantial character, with sufficient means to carry on the business properly, and having persevering and energetic men at their heads.

The discovery of this valuable mineral district is not a new thing, though it is but a few years that its extent and richness have been known; it is but recently that the United States has obtained the land from the Indians, and now that the difficulties in the way of working the veins are obviated, the time must soon arrive when we will be enabled to export copper, instead of importing about two millions worth a year. Under these circumstances, I cannot perceive how money will be lost by investing in the copper business. In England the work is prosecuted with great profit, though at immense expense, from the necessity of working the mines fifteen hundred feet below the surface, while the ore on Lake Superior comes up to the surface, is near the lake, and presents every necessary facility for the business, besides. The reports which have been presented to the legislature of Michigon, by Dr. Houghton, the State Geologist, shows that the ore of Lake Superior yields a much greater per contage of copper, and of a better quality than that of Eugland, and is fully equal in richness to any in the world.

The Convention for the revision of the Constitution of Missouri met at Jessesson on the 17th inst. The Hon. R. W. Wells was elected chairman.

The Kentucky Tribune, (Danville, Ky.,) says the "hog business" of that county is larger than it had supposed. The cashier of the branch bank of that place informs it that over $300,000 had passed through his hands for the purchase of pork.

The Canadian Parliament is further prorogued to the 29th of December. It is not likely that it will then meet.

ATT. Editor, "told but a plain unvariashed tale, extendated nothing, or set down aught in malice."—More anonated nothing, or set down aught in malice."—More anonate many the name of Joseph Green, aged about 16, came to his death in the town of Crawford, in this county, in the following manner:—After dinner on that day he took his gun from the kitchen of his father's house, and went to the wood-house, where he kept his ammunition, for the purpose of loading his piece. He was alone, and had been gone long enough to charge the gun, when the family in the house were started by a report, and a hired man on the farm, a little distance off, heard a scream and a cry—"1 am killed,"—when he turned around and saw young Green fall heavily to the ground. Before any one could reach him, he was dead. It is supposed that, standing under the edge of the woodhouse, after he had charged the gun, he threw the buttend of the gun over his shoulder, the barrel in his hand, as he often did, and its precussion cap was exploded by striking against the siding just over his head. The whole charge entered his breast.—Middletown Courier.

The most simple labor. I could hardly recognize, in the coarse and degrading garb of the prison, my clorical friend. His step is feeble; his frame emaciated; his face ghastly; his voice sepulchral and husky. My heart bled for him. He has no companions; he is not allowed no light, and must pass the long hours from F. M. to 6j A. M. in his cell, with nothing to break the monotony of these long and dreary nights save the watch cry of the guard. An effort is made by his friends to procure Mr. Torrey's release. But before this can be successful, he must raise the sum of 1500 dollars, to remunerate those wao have lost their slaves by his agency; and allow that he has violated the law, which T. now strenuously denies. And then a compromise must be made with the Virginians, who also have lost slaves. A requisition for Mr. Torrey, from the Governor of Virginia, is at the prison; and as soon as he is free from the Maryland Penitentiary he will be carried to Virginia, unless satisfaction is made. I hope that soon he may be free.

TRINITY CHURCH.—The Rev. Mr. Southard, of Calvary Church, in this city, is spoken of as the presbyter who will probably receive the call to the third Assistant Rectorship of Trinity, on the completion of the new church. Mr. Southard is of the high-church connection, and distinguished himself at the recent convention, in this city, in his elegant reply to Dr. Tyng and Mr. Ketchum. He is one of the youngest presbyters, in orders, in the diocese, and is the son of the late Senator of New Jersey.

Fire and Loss of Life in Baltimore.—A fire broke out this morning about hall past two o'clock, in a house on the north side of Camden street, between Charles and Light streets, in the rear of the Baltimore and Onio, and Philadelphis raifroad depot. The house was sowned by Mr. Pearson Adrian, and oecupied by Mr. Turpin, as a tavern. There was also a barber shop is one corner of the building, where the fire originated, as it is supposed, from accident. The house with its contents, was wholly destroyed. We regret to state that a man named Edward Parks, formerly captain of a bay craft, resident of Somerset county, Md., was burned to death. Himself and a man named Schoote were sleeping in an upper room, in the same bed. Schoote escaped by getting out of the window and descending by a barber pole adjoining the house. Self-preservation being the first law of nature, he made the best of his way out, leaving his companion to perish. The body was found in the ruins literally burnt to a crisp—the extremities, legs, arms and head burnt off. The deceased was about 50 years of age and a single man—had some property, and when at home, boarded with his mother and sisters. It is said that another person, a streager, supposed to be from New York, was in the house before the fire, and is missing. The presumption is that he also fell a viotim. The adjoining house on the east, owned by Mr. Philip F. Sadtler, and occupied by Mr. Schleisenger as a tavern, was also considerably damaged—the roof and upper stories being burnt.
